

Other Suffolk Records

Bury St Edmunds

As might be expected from the local market town, Bury, like Sudbury, has attracted a number of events, which are probably part of the story of some of the surrounding villages. However Bury also has a line in its own right. Many of the records belong to Mortlocks domiciled elsewhere but I lack any methodology to attribute these to the parent villages.

Flempton with Hengrave, and the Fornhams

I have grouped these records together as these villages are strung out over a short distance to the north-east of Bury; but see also Hargrave. A family from Great Livermere is included here also.

Gazeley

I have included here the London family of Miles who seems to have returned(?) to Gazeley at the end of his life. There are some later Gazeley records under Chevington in the family of Thomas and Emily, who seem to have hopped about between here and Moulton, presumably in search of work.

Newmarket

Here's another town which attracts people, and thus genealogical events, from its surrounding villages, notably a family from Cheveley in Cambridgeshire. Newmarket is of course yet another place which straddles a county border. Many of the records refer to events in Higham which was Mortlocked from Chevington.

Elsewhere in Suffolk

Into this group fall some early - as early as 1524 - records from the country round about Southwold, but the line appears to have died out, to be replaced by, eventually, Rocky mentioned under Clare. There are also some later records from the Ipswich area. This section is also the home for those Mortlocks who in 1881 gave their place of birth as "Suffolk" without helping me by naming a town or village.

Harry Thomas, eventually of Woodlands, Primrose Hill, Brentwood, but in 1901 of 33, East Bank, Stamford Hill and described as a cape merchant, rose to a directorship of Durant & Radford, produce brokers of Fenchurch St. Early in his career he was living in Stoke Newington. By 1919 he was in poor health and suffering from 'brain trouble'. At this point Harry Clive, who had been with Durant and Radford for four years before the war, after leaving Felsted School, tried to get released by the Army but this took until 1921, when he was, however, officially allowed to keep his rank of Captain. Harry Clive then became a director of an import-export house, but it went bust in 1934. In 1939 he volunteered to rejoin the Army in the RAOC, but was turned down, perhaps less because of his age than because his letter sounded more as if he was looking for a job rather than seeking to serve his country. He seems by then to have been in fairly pitiful financial straits and in 1940 was unemployed. He had originally enlisted in August 1914 and had soldiered all through the Kaiser's war, including serving in France [TNA,W0374/49161].

A keen cricketer, Harry Clive turned out three times for Essex in 1912 and once more, his war service over, in 1921. He was primarily a slow left-arm bowler but was also a useful low-order bat; in the former capacity he took five Derbyshire wickets for 104 runs at Leyton in May 1912.

Canon Charles Bernard was a noted authority on architecture. He served as an Army chaplain in the First World War. He made a couple of transatlantic trips in the fifties - returning from NY 7.12.1950 in SS Ile de France & in SS Liberté 6.5.1952.
